The screenshot shows the GitHub homepage with a dark background and a pattern of small icons. The main heading is "Where software is built". Below it, a paragraph describes GitHub as a platform for collaboration, code review, and code management, noting that public projects are free and private plans start at $7/mo. On the right side, there is a sign-up form with three input fields: "Pick a username", "Your email", and "Create a password". Below these fields is a green "Sign up for GitHub" button. At the bottom of the form, there is a line of text stating that by clicking "Sign up for GitHub", the user agrees to the terms of service and privacy policy, and that they will receive occasional account-related emails.
